LABELLE TROPHY CUP GOES TO WEBSTER HIGH SCHOOL.
Winners in Northern Division of Inter-scholastic Baseball League Get Prize.

William E. Labelle on Tuesday turned over to Secretary Malcolm Wilcox, of the Northern division of the Inter-scholastic baseball league the beautiful silver loving cup—known as the Labelle trophy—for presentation to the Webster team, which has won the championship for the 1916 season.

In his deed of Mr. Labelle explains that the trophy was offered on account of his interest in the high school or to the high school, as the young people who are students in the high school and his natural attachment for the national game of baseball.

The cup is given, the deed sets forth, upon condition that it shall be given each year to the high school baseball team which wins the championship of the Northern division of the Inter-scholastic league, and shall be held by that school until some other school wins the championship, when it is to be passed over to the winners.

The cup, to be known as the Labelle trophy, in case the league should discontinue to exist, after being held one year by the team last possessing it, is to be returned to Mr. Labelle to be used thereafter as he may direct.

The cup is one of the finest ever offered in this section. It stands 10 inches in height and is engraved with the names of the winners and suitable inscriptions and adornments.

NEWS OF STRIKE SETTLEMENT BRINGS GENERAL REJOICING.
Cars to Be Run on All Trolley Lines Today—Employees Satisfied With the Concessions Won at Norwich Tuesday.

Since the trolley men's strike is over, the old crews will be back on their runs the first thing this morning—and the last thing tonight. Announcement that an agreement had been reached was made here Tuesday morning. The good news spread quickly and everywhere there was rejoicing that the difficulty had been adjusted. The strike had disrupted many fixed arrangements that depended on the smooth operation of the trolley system and the effect of it upon the business system up and down the line was far more widespread than most people realize.

Carmen who will don their uniforms and go back to work, the trolley men pressed themselves Tuesday as satisfied with the agreement reached with the trolley men as the business system up and down the line was far more widespread than most people realize.

They returned to their jobs without loss of rating or privileges and go back without exception. They were frank to admit that they did not get all that they asked for, and equally as frank in their admission that they did not expect to. They did win a number of points that they consider vital and in that they are satisfied.

The agreement on which the men return to their cars is set forth in detail in the Norwich city news and applies to the local division as well as to the city lines.

The strikers on the local division maintained an all-night vigil Monday, awaiting the coming of conferees who had been at Norwich during the day and night, endeavoring to reach a working agreement. This committee was expected to arrive at Dayville at 1 a. m., but did not reach that place until 3 a. m. Tuesday. The men were then regularly informed of their representatives had accomplished and agreed to accept the arrangement.

The carmen on this division feel that they achieved a victory on points where they were entitled to win. They appear particularly well pleased over what they consider the recognition of their union and over the advance of three cents an hour in pay. It was stated on behalf of the union carmen that the minimum is raised under the agreement from 23 to 26 cents an hour and the maximum increased from 28 to 32 cents an hour. Averaging the runs at nine hours for seven days a week, this will give the men an advance of $1.9 a week.

Of the many things of which the union carmen talked after the announcement of the agreement was made Tuesday there was no one thing on which they laid more stress than the fact that the road was more of a detriment to a benefit to Danielson, because it caused the public to spend money in riding that otherwise might have come to them in trade.

This group produced the loudest squeal last Saturday when it was apparent that the trolley service was not likely to fill the bill and members of the group ran around like hens with their heads out trying to get a substitute service to get the out of town trade into Danielson. As Teddy Roosevelt or Bill Bryan or some other orator once remarked, "It is to laugh!"

Although they had reached an agreement with the company and were about to return to work this morning, the union carmen of this line could not resist the temptation to go out and parade in the streets, charging 3 cents for the trip. This service came to an end Tuesday night.

Care to East Killingly will be run this morning. The first time in nearly a week. This was one of the lines that was not opened with new crews. The same is true of the Central Village-Moosvi line.

Cranks Auto, Breaks Arm.
Hosea Greene, proprietor of a garage at Dayville, had his right arm broken Tuesday, while he was attempting to crank an automobile.

Wheel Stolen.
Ray W. Pellett on Tuesday reported to the police that a bicycle he owned was stolen Monday evening from the place where it had been left, on Railroad square.

Willey; History of Stenography, Miss Gladys Heard; Chemistry and the Home, Miss Anna Purging.

At a meeting of the senior class on Tuesday morning Miss Bertha Plessis was named as chairman of a committee to select a class speaker.

Strike-breakers Fade Away.
Announcement of the settlement of the strike was heard with satisfaction Tuesday at the high school. There will be running this morning in charge of the union crews who have been on their strike.

their desire to express to the public their most sincere thanks and appreciation of the sympathy and support which they have received. They did not expect the public to fight their battle for them; nevertheless, they were quick to see that the public accorded only the very lightest patronage to the road during the time when the cars were being handled by strike-breaking crews.

The carmen are also proud of the manner in which the union members conducted themselves during the strike. There was not one incident that would reflect upon them either as individuals or as an organization, and they did not intend that there should be from the moment they left their cars, they say.

A fine feature of the settlement is that it appears to have been accomplished without leaving any rancor, at least upon the union men's side. They are not boasting or gloating and have no words of animosity or condemnation for anyone concerned in the strike on the side opposite to their own. Their attitude is much the same as when they stopped work a week ago tonight. At that time they summed up their action in the terse comment "We have quit." They follow it now with the equally terse, "We're going back to work."

The strike-breakers and guards finished their work on the local division with the suspension of the service on Tuesday night and will be leaving here promptly. There is no word to be said against those who came here to take the strikers' places as to conduct or behavior toward the public. They minded their business and had little or nothing to say to the public, although they were not to the local public, who seemed to be in some fear of them, what the regular crews are.

Among the business men there was unanimous rejoicing over the strike settlement. The suspension or disruption of the regular schedules on the lines very forcibly demonstrated how much the road means to this community and all surrounding communities that it reaches. There was grim satisfaction in this lesson for those who have from time to time heard a few narrow-minded business men while that the road was more of a detriment to a benefit to Danielson, because it caused the public to spend money in riding that otherwise might have come to them in trade.

This group produced the loudest squeal last Saturday when it was apparent that the trolley service was not likely to fill the bill and members of the group ran around like hens with their heads out trying to get a substitute service to get the out of town trade into Danielson. As Teddy Roosevelt or Bill Bryan or some other orator once remarked, "It is to laugh!"

striks as was the case up to Wednesday night of last week. Tuesday evening some of the strike-breakers who have shown at Dayville came to this city to get trains for New York and most of those remaining are expected to get away today. There has been no disturbance in this city during the period of the strike.
